ILLNESS OF F. N. STRUDWICK.— We refer to learn from Hillsboro by yesterday morning that this gentleman was lying extremely ill, and in a critical condition. He attended Person Court last week, and returned home in apparently excellent health. He was taken very ill on Friday night last.

BAKER & FARRON.—The performance at Tucker Hall last night was largely attended, and we were glad of it, for the performance was unique and excellent. We have no hesitation in saying that it is the best thing of the kind we have ever seen on the boards here. As for dialect acting, we have never seen anything like it. Cris is unapproachable, and the jolly German landlord, Jacob Von Wolfenstein, is the very thing himself. Lena is the German lass we may suppose to be the usual ornament of the "Garten."

We were compelled to leave before the performance was half over, much to our regret, which is increased by the knowledge of the fact that they are gone.

HISTORY OF THE SUICIDE.

From a young man who knew the stranger, we learned the following of his history: His name is Jacob B. Rumbough, a cigar manufacturer, some 45 years of age, was born in Woodstock, some eight miles from Charlottesville, Va., and was last year employed as foreman in the cigar factory of C. Wurtenbaker, in Charlotteville. He has lived much of his life in Richmond and Lynchburg, and has at present a wife and three children in Lynchburg. He has been traveling for several months past, in search of employment, working here and there for a short time, and came to this city from Charlotte a couple of days since seeking work, but failing to find any, became disheartened and told the gentleman who gave us the information only the night before that he was tempted to kill himself.

A short time afterward, T. R. Purcell, Esq., put in his appearance, and asked if I had the Evans note.
I told him I had, and he said if he could see it. I asked him if he represented Evans and he did.
He said he did, but on inquiry I found that some other had employed him and I told him that he could not see it. I told him with that information he could not see it, and that I would show no papers connected with the case to any other person than Turner Evans or some one property of his. I told him if he represented Evans, and he said he did, that he did what his duty to do, no lawyer with the facts before him can gainsay or contradict. A short time after the game was given to him, Squier Haywood came into my office and said no one should appear before the court without giving his reasons for so doing. I stated to Mr. Purcell that he could appear by giving bond for cost and a judgment for the rent. He did not tender any bond in my presence and Mr.
Haywood said he had no bond and had no right to call him in. He wanted me to hold up the writ, which I refused to do unless the bond was given. About 5 o'clock that evening I went to the Mayor's office to give in my tax.
While there the Mayor, sitting in his seat, showed considerable temper and used "words" by the whole world over. He did everything he could to make me feel as though he were in his office at the time. He did not restrain them from using bad epithets, and it was remarkable to see how familiar his language was with low slangs and with what ease and fluency he used them while gracing his seat as Mayor. I thought it strange that a Mayor should think it was perhaps after all a matter of taste, and as to that, de gustibus non disputandum.
I laughed and told his Honor he was only mad because he was beaten. I will not quote his language for I know you would not publish it if I did. It can be proved by a number of gentlemen that he instructed the negro to reflect upon his public standing in it and hold possession. So the consistency of his motives, as expressed in his card, with the language used above stated together with his "cuss" words and actions and with the statement to Deputy Sheriff, made in the presence of several gentlemen, that he intended to have the house bloodied would be well received, if not strong, proof that he was produced. His Honor the General had been present in the pursuit of Henry Berry Lowry as he was to have his squatters in Mr. Harris's house and defeat the writ of a proper officer, his name would be handed down for "three generations" yet to come, as a brave hero General.

Other sayings and doings of the Mayor in connection with the case were easily given, but what more is needful?

W. H. PACE.

He was a man of good appearance, and we are told has always been an honest hard-working man.

He was a member of Piedmont

Charlottesville, Va., and of Chicka-

STATE AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL.

This journal has changed hands.

Col. John D. Whitford having become the purchaser, and by whom it will be conducted.

At present Mr. C. F. Harris, of the Concord Sun, remains in editional charge. The journal retains the full endorsement of the State Grange as the recognized organ.

We congratulate the public upon the accession of Col. Whitford to the journalistic corps. He is a gentleman of rare culture and intelligence, most thoroughly imbued with the true North Carolina spirit and full of devotion to his native State and her interests in all their variety.

MR. PACE'S CARD.—Yesterday morning his Capital contained a card from Major Gorman, embracing correspondence between him and certain other parties, entered into with a view strengthening the position taken by him in his first card. We give place to the reply of Mr. Pace whose statements were cited in question, and invite attention to the same.

THE DAILY NEWS.

FRIDAY.....APRIL 23, 177.

JOHN W. DUNHAM, JOHN D. CAMERON, Editors.

JORDAN STONE, Manager.

THE DAILY NEWS is the Only Paper in the City of Raleigh That Takes the Telegraphic Reports.

JOB PRINTING.

The News Job Department has been thoroughly supplied with every needed want and with the latest styles of Types, and every manner of Job Work can now be done with neatness, dispatch and cheapness. We can furnish at short notice

BLANKS, BILL HEADS, LETTER HEADS, CARDS, PROGRAMMES, HANDBILLS, PAMPHLETS, POSTERS, CHECKS, DRAFTS, &c.

It seems that the injury by the frost is not confined to fruit or vegetables. In the Northwest, the great granary of the country, the wheat crop in some sections is much injured, in some instances, totally destroyed.

Since the Raleigh News and Sentinel have commenced quarreling on the gauge, the rest of us have to retire.—Charlotte Observer.

The News has no occasion of quarreling with the Sentinel on the subject. Both papers started off on the same track without a shade of difference as to the policy of the act. The News has not changed its position a hair's breadth, and therefore has no occasion for quarrel.

The Danville News of the 21st has a letter from Caswell county stating that all the large tobacco plants were killed, and that the fly is destroying the smaller ones. This is discouraging. Last year the crop was indifferent, but the planters were not disheartened, and had determined to go to work with renewed energy. Their hopes appear to be dashed at the outset.

EAST Florida is growing into a sort of semi-tropical paradise. The equality of the climate and its fitness to the cultivation of fruit, is bringing the country into a condition as poetical in idea, as practical in reality—one large orange grove; while other fruits, pine apples, bananas, etc., are receiving attention. Northern thrift has seized what Southern indolence overlooked. But time will make them all Southerners, and we have no regrets to make that our own people of this generation lost their opportunity.

CUMBERLAND.

This gallant county, opposing Convention with all its might up to the time of the passage of the bill calling it, has wheeled into line with accustomed alacrity, and will be behind none other in her efforts to elect true delegates to it. The County Convention is called to be held on the 20th of May, for the selection of delegates. Cumberland will give a good account of herself.

The Greensboro Patriot of the 21st says that the question of gauge has been discussed from a local point of view, and with reference to the gain or loss of particular localities. We think the Patriot should acquit the News of any such narrow view, since its whole object has been to show that the change of gauge was not local in its application, but affecting directly the prosperity and interests of all parts of the State, East and West. We have shown that there are more than eleven hundred miles of the road of the North Carolina gauge which is cut in two, detached, and made useless as connecting links by the interposition of the new gauge between Greensboro and Charlotte. We care no more for the Raleigh and Gaston Road than we do for the Wilmington and Weldon and the Atlantic and North Carolina Roads. We are, as a citizen of the State, little more interested in the prosperity of Raleigh than of Wilmington or Charlotte, Salisbury or Newbern. We regard them with equal interest as points in our great State, connected or designed to be connected, in one common system.

The Patriot says that every cent of reduction on freights and passages is so much of a public gain. The Patriot is comforting itself with the idea that the proportion on through freight and passengers is to be applied to the local traffic on the N. C. R. R. Perhaps when the Patriot recalls the universal practice of rail road companies to make their local business bear burdens they dare not impose on through business for fear that the latter, in that case, must yield to the force of competition; and when the Patriot sees the long trains of loaded cars, and the crowded passenger trains sweeping by Greensboro at the rate of 35 miles an hour, it will wake up to the fact that Greensboro is no more than a way station, and that the zeal of the Patriot in behalf of the new system has been altogether super-serviceable.

ORANGE COUNTY.

We clip the following from the Durham Tobacco Plant, and take it as a good indication of how the wind sets in Orange. As for Hon. W. A. Graham, public sentiment is fixed. It needed no spur to move instinctively to him. As to Mr. Patterson, we think the suggestion a most excellent one. Mr. Patterson has represented his county in the Legislature with credit and usefulness. He has served as Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners for some years, with ability and fidelity, and did a great deal, perhaps more than any one else, to extricate the county from its financial difficulties. He earned for himself the character of an honest, sagacious, clear-headed and patriotic man. He is a farmer, with the advantage of good education, and the constant practical exercise of his faculties, and he would make a most useful and intelligent delegate to the Convention.

DURHAM, N. C., April 20. Mr. Editor—I see the names of several gentlemen mentioned in connection with the nomination as delegates to our State Convention, through the columns of the Plant. In this connection, I do not express any particular views for the views of a large majority of the citizens of this part of the county. We are of the opinion that the Hillsboro Convention could not do better than select Hon. W. A. Graham and Maj. W. N. Patterson, and we second the motion of "Senex" of Hillsboro that these gentlemen be nominated by acclamation. This is certainly the time when politicians ought to keep quiet and let the people make their own choice.

THE COAL STRIKES.

People at a distance from the scene of action have heard with indifference of the troubles in the coal regions—the strike of the miners, and the suspension of production, until the question is suddenly brought home to every man's fireside by the simple operation of one of Nature's laws. The late cold snap found many a hearth without fuel, and the markets without coal. Then the dependency of one portion of the country upon another was manifested, and then was the danger of the disturbance between labor and capital illustrated.

This Pennsylvania strike is in truth one of the most stupendous of its kind we know. The value of the property now lying idle is five hundred millions of dollars, or thereabouts. The number of miners engaged is between forty and fifty thousand. The derangement of business by the idleness of so much capital, and the withdrawal of so much labor can scarcely be appreciated, yet is now beginning to be felt.

The strike has assumed the proportions of a rebellion, not against government, but against a power that at the North controls the government—the vast consolidated capital, which shapes, or seeks to shape, everything to its own ends. There is therefore little sympathy with a power which has been so confident in its own strength, that it never feared to fail, because its foundation were too deep. But in this strike, as in all others, labor is at a disadvantage—because it has placed itself outside of law to secure its rights. The necessities of society compel that they should yield and seek redress by other modes than the destruction of property, or the overthrow of industries.

As a mere item of news, or even as the inspiration of a newspaper paragraph, the subject of the prospect of a war in Europe may weigh little with the general reader, because scenes so remote and transactions so distant might seem to be indifferent to him. Yet such is the close social and financial alliance of modern civilization that what affects one nation or one section vibrates to the very extremes of this mighty and closely interwoven compact. Leaving out of view altogether sympathy with combatants, the interest in their success or defeat, the loss of life and the personal suffering incident upon war, there is enough in the disturbance of commercial relations to attract attention and awaken anxiety. One of the first effects of war is to jeopardize the security of merchandise in transitu. This involves increased rates of insurance, and it justifies a higher compensation to shippers for the risks run. Hence every nation finds it has to pay more for everything imported, sugar, coffee, and other things, either become scarcer, or are held at higher rates. Articles of export are subject to the same hindrances, and hence the planting and farming interest in this country always suffers from a European war, by the depression that falls upon cotton, tobacco, flour, etc.

The war cloud in Europe is again thickening, and Prussia seems ready to put to the test the mighty efforts she has been making since the French war. She can put nearly every able bodied man in the kingdom into the field on an emergency. Russia can put 1,500,000, and France probably one million. When the war comes, it will be one of giants.

The Famous "Banditti" Article. As this has been erroneously attributed by some to the News, when in fact it was the editorial of the Sentinel of March 19th, we reproduce it in justice to ourselves. It was written before the friend of Mr. Buford had been converted to a more proper appreciation of a wide gauge. Very "wide is the way," &c.

VERGINIA VERSUS NORTH CAROLINA.

North Carolinians are slow in forming their conclusions and slow in acting upon them; but that they have this distinguishing virtue; that when they do form their conclusions and decide upon their action they are invincible in their determinations. They were the last to go into the war against the United States and the last to give in when we were whipped. Virginia has been encroaching upon us for a long time. If Brodgen, when the news reached Raleigh that an army of Virginia hirelings, under the leadership of one Buford, were tearing up the railroad which our fathers had built so to turn it with the Virginia railroad and defeat the plans of our great State, had called out the militia, and taken possession of our State railroad, and if resistance had been offered, shot them down in their tracks, who thus offered to trifle with the property and the honor of the State.

In another column we print a most interesting letter from Mr. Oaksmith, of Hillsboro, on the question written in response to specific inquiries of ours upon the subject. It will be seen now how much (or rather how little) weight can be attached to the opinions of certain gentlemen learned in the law, who have seen fit to endorse the opinions of the Supreme Court upon this question of gauge—or rather upon the effect of the law as it was applied in 1861. Our friends, Caldwell and our Moreheads, have called out the militia, and taken possession of our State railroad, and if resistance had been offered, shot them down in their tracks, who thus offered to trifle with the property and the honor of the State.

NOON DISPATCHES.

Adjournment of the Supreme Court of the United States—No decision in the Louisiana case—Judge Bradley to be sustained.

NEW YORK April 22d.—A dispatch to the Sun from Washin' says the Supreme Court will adjourn on 3d of May, conference or vote on the case which involved the constitutionality of the enforcement acts. There is good reason to believe that this tribunal by a most decided majority will sustain the decision of Justice Bradley in the court below, and declare all this legislation to be void and without any constitutional warrant. The opinion will be reserved until the meeting of court next fall.

Advices from Havana state that one thousand well mounted insurgents had entered the jurisdiction of Saqua La Grange on Friday last, and burned seven large plantations. They met with no resistance.

It was supposed at Havana that the Captain General Valenzuela had received sufficient reinforcements to prevent their further progress westward.

From the city of Mexico, we learn that Col. Yo Soto and party had reached the capital. They appear to be engaged in a purely commercial and speculative enterprise.

Supreme Court—Unconstitutionality of the Enforcement Act.

WASHINGTON, 22d.—It is the general impression of those who have been informed of the case known as the Grant Parish case involving the constitutionality of the Enforcement Act of May 31st, 1870, will not be decided at this term but the same authority asserts that a large majority of the Court if not all are of opinion that the Act is unconstitutional.

The Future of Mexico.

Correspondent in Mexico, writing to New York Tribune, says: "It seems that the hour has nearly arrived when the bloody records of another religious war, likely to ensue, are being written. Already the torch, the sword and knife of fanaticism, are doing their dreadful work in Michoacan, Puebla and some other well known places. The sword of superstition is unsheathed again, and heaven alone knows how far and wide miseries will stop." In addition to recent outrages, General Roosa from his command in the general review of the army has thought well to adopt a still more stringent measure of precaution against any revolutionary movement that might be attempted in the States. He has ordered the withdrawal of four brigades of artillery which are to be sent to their respective divisions of the army and under command in the City of Mexico.

Recalling to the capital all the artillery of the army shows that the government has no confidence in either the troops or the cities and State which they garrison. An order of this kind has never been issued before, and it is looked upon as a sure forerunner of approaching trouble."
